BSUIR improved its position in the international SIR ranking

Ranking SIR is a global ranking system of scientific establishments that was introduced in 2009 by SCImago group. The group evaluates the activities of universities and R&D organizations in terms of quantity and results of the research conducted, the number of patents and patent applications received, citation score, and social media activeness.

As of April 2022, BSUIR occupies 804th place among R&D organizations. This is 62 positions higher than in 2021. The nomination includes more than 8300 organizations.

BSUIR occupies 637th position among global universities in SIR rankings, moreover, the University saw an improvement of 29 positions the previous year. This nomination includes 4300 higher education establishments.

To top it all, SIR is divided into 19 subject areas. In subject area nomination BSUIR is presented in: "Chemistry", "Informatics", "Engineering", "Mathematics", and "Physics and Astronomy". This year the "Mechanical Engineering" category was added to the "Engineering" area.
